

“All Dried Out”

PJ Chan

Eleven-years-old
Fresno, California

Eleven-year-old PJ Chan hopes to be a professional golfer some day—specifically, just like Tiger Woods. He hits the green 2 to 4 times per week in hopes to strengthen his stroke and draw closer to his career dream. Top Flite, Nike, and Titleist clubs rest in his customized golf bag—he says he needs to use the best if he is going to be the best. Currently, PJ lives in Fresno, California, and is a sixth grader at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic School. He is a left-side-of-the-brain kid enjoying math and science classes and is regularly listed on the honor roll. Though he excels academically, he balances his life with several other extracurricular activities. He plays the piano, participates actively in his Boy Scout troop, and hangs out with his friends. Eight years from now, he hopes to be pursuing a degree in business at Stanford University and a player on their reputable golf team. PJ is excited to grow up and says “it would be great to be independent.” Eventually, he wants to drive a hybrid of some sorts and live on the beach in Hawaii with his family. He says family is the most important thing in the world to him.
